

Dr. James A. Anderson

Author ~ Academic ~ Advocate

JAMES A. ANDERSON is the former Chancellor and Professor of Psychology at Fayetteville State University (2008 – 2020). He previously served at SUNY Albany, Texas A&M University, North Carolina State University, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, and Xavier University of New Orleans. He is the author of the book: “Driving Change Through Diversity and Globalization – Transformative Leadership in the Academy,” and he edited the book: “The Unfinished Agenda of Brown V. Board of Education.” He also has published numerous book chapters and journal articles. He has served as a consultant for the accrediting body, SACSCOC. He holds an undergraduate degree from Villanova University, and a Ph.D. in psychology from Cornell University. He was born and raised in Washington, DC.

~ Keynotes ~

- Enhancing and expanding the social and psychological identity development of young males of color.
- From Ghetto to Glory: The Critical Role of Advocates and Mentors in young peoples’ lives.
- Redefining educational “success” for future generations of students.
- Why K-12 education has declined since the historic (1954) Brown decision.
- How can minority-serving higher education institutions, especially HBCUs, prepare for the year 2030?

